

First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia Ivica Dacic said that today's decision of the Hague Tribunal to return Vojislav Seselj to The Hague was perfidious and scandalous and threatened the stability of Serbia and the entire region.

"The Republic of Serbia has neither been informed about the decision to release Vojislav Seselj nor has it been informed of the decision to return him to The Hague now, either.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia, or any state authority, has not yet received any official notification of today's decision by The Hague Tribunal.

Following such official notification, the Government of the Republic of Serbia will decide on further steps to take in the coming days", said the Serbian Foreign Minister.
