

First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia Ivica Dacic conferred today with Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras in Saint Petersburg.

The Serbian Foreign Minister and the Greek Prime Minister spoke about the Greco-Russian deal on a joint venture for the construction of a gas pipeline to transport gas from Russia to Turkey, across Serbian territory as well.

The second topic that featured in the talks was the Greek Prime Minister's visit to Serbia. The Greek Prime Minister said he would visit in July or in September at the latest. Prime Minister Tsipras's visit to Serbia depended, as he said, on Greece's negotiations with the financial institutions.
