

First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia Ivica Dacic signed today the book of condolences at the Embassy of the French Republic in Belgrade, opened in the wake of the terrorist attacks in Paris.

"On behalf of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia, I express my most heartfelt condolences and solidarity with all the victims of the terrorist attacks in Paris, their families, the French people and the Government.

Terrorism has, regrettably, shown its brute face once again. The response must be strong and universal.

Serbia continues to stand by France in the most difficult of times", Minister Dacic wrote.
