

First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia Ivica Dacic condemned most sternly the latest provocation by Pristina, when so-called Prime Minister of Kosovo Isa Mustafa stated yesterday after the talks with a delegation from Presevo, Bujanovac and Medvedja that he had received representatives from "three municipalities of Eastern Kosovo".

"This was the most overt proof of a Greater Albania policy posing the gravest threat to the stability in the region. Why are international and European officials silent on this case, who have incidentally been very much concerned these days about war criminal Haradinaj? Would they also remain silent if someone from Belgrade referred to Banjaluka as Western Serbia?

Serbia is making great efforts to preserve peace and stability in the region, but it cannot and will not put up with hypocrisy and double standards anymore."
