

The coordinated statements by Rama, Thaci and Musliu show that a Greater Albania is the goal shared by all Albanians. Today Musliu added Nis to this objective, tomorrow it will be Skopje, Ulcinj, Epirus, etc.

Albanian politicians are becoming the main threat to peace and stability in the Balkans and Europe. The Albanians should mince their words carefully, since their patrons who bombed Serbia into submission to steal Kosovo away from it are no longer in the international arena. That will never happen again.

Serbia is not provoking anyone, but it does not fear anyone, either. Will the EU, the US and Great Britain say something? If they do not do so this time again, when Greater Albania has come close to Nis, they will be directly responsible for the consequences.

Fortunately, all of this is but a pipedream. However, we have learned from experience that the journey from a dream to a nightmare is a short one.
