

"The French Court's decision on Haradinaj is an example of political influence on the Court and of double standards even when the victims are concerned.

This sends a clear message that the killing of Serbs goes unpunished. Had a Serb been arrested, would have the request for the extradition to Kosovo been turned down?

Serbia must seek justice for the Serbian victims, because they are worthy of it like all other victims. We will seek justice everywhere and from whatever side.

This shameful decision will certainly have consequences on our bilateral relations with France. French generals in WWI would be ashamed of such a decision made by France."
