

Exhibition “History of Algerian-Yugoslav Relations”

Monday, 10 September 2012.

Algiers, July 2012 - On the occasion of celebrating the 50th anniversary of independence and fifty years of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries, an exhibition "History of Algerian-Yugoslav Relations" was opened at the Culture House in Algiers on 3 July 2012. The Exhibition resulted from the good collaboration between the Archive of Yugoslavia and the National Archive of Algeria. The opening ceremony was attended by many officials, including Acting Director of the Archive of Yugoslavia M. Milosevic, by media representatives, the Diplomatic Corps, officials of the Algerian Foreign Ministry, while guests of honour were the eminent Algerian revolution veteran and former Algerian Ambassador to the SFRY El Arbi El Attrus and Serbian Ambassador to Algeria M. Sestovic. The Exhibition is due to be shown in the other Algerian towns, as well, by July 2013.
