

The "No More War, 1914-2014" exhibition of paintings by Slobodan and Vladimir Peskirevic opened on 16 January at the Cultural Center of Serbia in Paris, with an attendance of hundreds of distinguished guests.

Portraits of celebrities, the nudes, and still-lives are on show. These works of art simultaneously represent the authors' attempt to bring back in 2014 the memory of a promise that there will be "no more war", made in 1918, and violated in 1939.

The Paris exhibition will be open until 15 February.
