

"The Staircase of Life", a retrospective exhibition of paintings authored by a Naïve artist from Serbia Jan Bacur, sponsored by Serbian Ambassador Sani Dermaku, opened on 15 January 2018 at the Gallery of the Ministry of Culture of Slovakia. The exhibition will run until the end of January.

Ambassador Dermaku addressed an audience composed of representatives of the diplomatic corps and figures from Slovakia's cultural and political life, as well as of art-lovers, pointing to the importance that the Naïve painting school from Kovacica has for the preservation and promotion of both cultural and artistic identity of Slovaks in Serbia.
