The Embassy of the Republic of Serbia to South Africa had the honour to inaugurate a traditional event "Days of Francophonie in South Africa with the "Requiem for Mrs. J" movie which was screened on the "Alliance Francaise" non-governmental organization premises in Pretoria. Prior the movie showing, the guests were addressed by Serbian Ambassador to Pretoria Bozin Nikolic.

This year's opening ceremony was held on 10 March so that 26 participating countries could present their cultural activities, gastronomic specialties and national souvenirs on the booths at the Pretoria High School.
