

The Serbian Embassy in Brazil took part in the Embassies' Fair, on 10 November, where it promoted the natural beauties of our country, its cultural handicraft and gastronomy. The Tourism Organization of Serbia and Ethnographic Museum provided their assistance to the Embassy of Serbia in making the presentation of our country in the best possible light, by delivering their promotional material.

Brazilians, as well as foreigners living in Brazil, could take photos in our folk costumes, learn more about natural beauties and tourist attractions, as well as get acquainted with our gastronomy, but also with our alphabet, and wear "Japanke" (Serbian traditional footwear) with motifs of "kilim" (the traditional flat tapestry-woven carpets) of Pirot. The participation of Serbia at the Embassies' Fair was covered by a number of media, such as the "Correio Braziliense" daily and the "Bakuri Brazil" portal, which promotes agriculture and industry.
