

The piano duo from Serbia "LP Duo", comprising Sonja Loncar and Andrija Pavlovic, with Japanese pianist Aisa Ijri held a concert at the Embassy, on 1 November, in cooperation with the Association for the Promotion of Music Cooperation between Serbia and Japan.

Ambassador Nenad Glisic thanked Etsuko Tsunozaki, wife of the former Ambassador of Japan to Serbia, who led the Association, for hosting and promoting our artists in Japan, as well as the artists whose performance marked the relocation of the Embassy to new premises at the same time.

Sonja Loncar and Andrija Pavlovic have performed all over the world in concert venues such as the New York Carnegie Hall, the Kennedy Centre in Washington DC, Singapore's NUS, the Danish Royal Opera, the Theatre in Copenhagen and others. They premiered over 50 pieces written by local and foreign contemporary music composers. They are the recipients of the City of Belgrade Award for Youth Creativity, as well as the Annual Award of the Association of Music Artists of Serbia for the best young artists. They have composed applied music for theatre, film and television, and have released eight albums in Serbia, Croatia, Denmark and the Netherlands.

Aisa Ijri is the official artist of Steinway & Sons, the Artistic Director of the Tokyo International

Tokyo: LP Duo concert at the Embassy

Thursday, 21 November 2019.

Piano Festival and Honorary Representative of the Royal College of Music in London. She has performed in Belgrade on several occasions and collaborated with many pianists in Serbia.