

First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs Ivica Dacic received in a farewell visit Ambassador of the Hellenic Republic to the Republic of Serbia Elias Eliades.

Minister Dacic thanked Ambassador Eliades for his engagement during his term and for his contribution to additional strengthening of close and friendly relations between Serbia and Greece. The Serbian Foreign Minister noted that the political dialogue at high and highest levels was stepped up through bilateral visits and regular meetings of the Greek-Serbian High-Level Cooperation Council.

Ambassador Eliades thanked Minister Dacic and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs as a whole for their comprehensive assistance in making successful and constructive cooperation possible.

The Greek Ambassador emphasized that Serbia could count on further unequivocal and strong support of Greece in connection with Kosovo and Metohija, as well as concerning Serbia's EU integration process.

Minister Dacic expressed his conviction that the political momentum would continue to gain ground and, thanking Ambassador Eliades for his personal contribution and involvement, he wished him a lot of success in his future professional career.
