

In New York, at the 74th United Nations General Assembly session, First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Serbia Ivo Dacic met briefly with President of Turkey Recep Tayyip Erdoğan.

In the cordial meeting with the Serbian Foreign Minister, the Turkish President conveyed pleasure over his upcoming visit to Serbia, at the invitation of Serbian President Aleksandar Vucic. Furthermore, the President emphasized that he was looking forward to the traditional Serbian hospitality.

President Erdoğan underlined that the Serbia-Turkey relations were outstanding and at a peak in the recent political history.