

"Germany's decision to give the green light to the opening of the first two negotiating chapters is an excellent piece of news for the people of Serbia and an affirmation of the major results achieved Europe-wide by the Government of Serbia led by Prime Minister Aleksandar Vucic. This is a sign that Serbia is on the right track.

The tragic fact is that on the same day when Serbia was commended for the success of its policies, Pajtic and a twosome Tadic-Jovanovic levelled the worst possible accusations at the Government and the Prime Minister.

The present achievements of the Serbian Government seemed like a far-fetched mirage during their term-of-office, when they pursued their policies. Instead of celebrating Serbia's success, this is a day of mourning for them, for what suits Serbia, doesn't suit them. They will get a taste of their own medicine in any elections which they are allegedly asking for, while praying to God that electionday may never come".
